

The Chimps Need 400 Canisters (18.4 oz size) of Gatorade!

Good hydration and electrolyte balance is especially important to the elderly chimps at the Save the Chimps sanctuary. Although all of our chimps have fresh drinking water available to them at all times, our senior chimps are also encouraged to drink Gatorade to ensure they stay well hydrated.

A small amount of the Gatorade powder is used to mask the flavor of the important medications that we give. Chimpanzees have different likes and dislikes and the variety of flavors and colors guarantees that they take their medications prescribed by the veterinarians. Unfortunately, like humans, they often refuse to drink plain water, but will willingly drink diluted Gatorade since it helps mask the flavor of their important medications. It's also beneficial for chimps who have kidney disease, or are just feeling under the weather.

Can you help us to collect a three month supply of powdered Gatorade?
